How can somebody just leave...
like he never came
How can someone disappear
like he never existed...
How can someone turn a corner...
and never turn back...
How can someone forget everything
and never wish to remember?
And how can someone love so much
and never come to know at all...
How can he never see the difference he made
and the differences he was set to make...
How can someone get deaf
to all the howling and tears...
How can he forget all the smiles
his family ever shared?

How can somebody just leave
like he never came?

End.
